IV. Our relationship with Indigenous peoples and traditional communities respects their cultural and territorial specificities and we follow the rules contained in their Consultation Protocols, when applicable.

GUIDELINES

- a) Base our relationship with Indigenous peoples and traditional communities on transparency, dialogue and the continuous pursuit of their engagement and mutual trust, throughout the life cycle of our business – acquisition, investment, operation, decommissioning, hibernation and divestment – aiming at social legitimacy to operate.
- b) Participate in the implementation, in good faith and within the parameters established by ILO Convention No. 169, of the free, prior and informed consultation conducted by a competent public body and in accordance with the regulations in force, notably Interministerial Ordinance 60/2015, when a direct impact on the community is identified, within the scope of the environmental licensing processes for projects or activities.
  - b.1) Observe all the steps established for the free, prior and informed consultation process defined by the competent body.
- c) In the Human Rights Due Diligence process, proactively identify and assess potential risks and impacts related to the rights of Indigenous peoples and traditional communities, establishing prevention, mitigation and monitoring actions, complaints mechanisms and procedures for fair reparation, when necessary.
  - c.1) In the process of identifying and assessing risks and impacts, ensure the participation of Indigenous peoples and traditional communities potentially impacted by our activities or operations.
  - c.2) In the process of identifying and assessing risks and impacts, consider those identified and validated by regulatory bodies within the scope of environmental licensing, both in obtaining the appropriate licenses and in their maintenance and renewals.
- d) Conduct relationship actions with communities in the area covered by our activities, considering the local context, aiming to engage Indigenous peoples and traditional communities and contributing to the viability of our businesses and local development.
- e) Respect the actions of human rights defenders in the exercise of their activities, whether they are members of or work with Indigenous peoples and traditional communities, recognizing that the activities that pose the greatest risk to human rights defenders involve defending the right to land and to the environment.
- f) Carry out voluntary socio-environmental investments, with Indigenous peoples and traditional communities among the priority groups to be supported, contributing to the preservation and increase of their cultural heritage, appreciation of their ways of life and traditional knowledge, in addition to the promotion and recognition of access to rights inherent to these populations.

- g) Conduct relationship actions arising from compliance with environmental licensing conditions within the scope of our projects and activities in accordance with the principles and guidelines referenced in these guidelines.
- h) Enhance opportunities in partnership with Indigenous peoples and traditional communities in the context of the just transition to a low-carbon economy and climate adaptation, especially on the right to an ecologically balanced environment, with access to quality energy services and climate resilience.
- i) Always respect the right to possession or ownership of communities, which includes the consent to enter their territories.
- j) Avoid the removal and resettlement of Indigenous peoples and traditional communities and only carry them out as an exceptional measure, observing our Guidelines for Removal and Resettlement of Communities.
- k) Ensure that our suppliers commit to respecting the rights of Indigenous peoples and traditional communities.
- l) Promote dialogue with public security forces, with the aim of mitigating potential conflicts in interactions with Indigenous peoples and traditional communities.
- m) Establish partnerships with Public Authorities, supporting public policies that benefit Indigenous peoples and traditional communities.
- n) Coordinate with the Public Prosecutor's Office and the Public Defender's Office to guarantee and promote human rights concerning Indigenous peoples and traditional communities.
